

What Does WFTDA REALLY think about OSDA?????

01-09-2008, 04:49 AM

POSTED ON <http://www.skatelogforum.com/forums/showthread.php?t=6361> POST #13

Mercy Less

Junior Member

Join Date: Dec 2007

Posts: 1

 WFTDA checking in...

Hi!

I'm Mercy Less, Marketing/PR Chair for WFTDA, and Board of Directors. I just wanted to make clear that the above post from a member skater of a WFTDA league is NOT the organization's position on OSDA. Of late we are enjoying an open communication with OSDA, and we'd like to continue building that bridge between us - we all love the same thing, after all!

In the future, I'd remind our members to remember to be careful of their use of the word "we" in online forums, lest they give the impression they speak for all of us. WFTDA does things one way, and OSDA another. There are other organizations beyond these two, as well. We all play derby, and try to respect each other's differences.

There's room in the community for all of us! If you are interested in becoming a WFTDA league, you can contact a rookie wrangler here :

rookieleagues@wftda.com, or look for membership information on our website, www.wftda.com. Thanks!

Derby For All,
Mercy Less

...and if you are interested in becoming an OSDA league, you can send an inquiry via any OSDA league website, there is a list of Board Member Contacts on the last page of our OSDA Policies and Procedures Manual (available on all OSDA web locations and by email request!)

www.oldschoolderby.com

www.myspace.com/oldschoolderbyassociation

Penn Jersey She Devils

South Jersey Derby Girls

Hell City Hooligans
A Division of Penn Jersey She Devils

Man's Ruin Roller Girls

Diamond City Death Kings

Richmond Derby Demons
& The Delta Derby Devils!

Corpus Christi Rolling Thunder